The Associate Degree Nursing (ADN) program prepares an individual to become a professional registered nurse (RN), who supervises the tasks done by Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN's), orderlies, nursing assistants and/or medical assistants. The ADN-RN provides direct client care and assists in making decisions regarding plans of care for individuals and groups of healthy, ill and/or injured clients. The ADN-RN takes general support courses that are transferrable for a baccalaureate in nursing. A graduate of the program is conferred the Associate in Applied Science Degree and is eligible to take the National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX) to obtain a nursing license.

PRCC Requirements: General Biology with Lab must be taken prior to Anatomy and Physiology I with Lab. For graduation with the A.A.S. degree, Computer Concepts (CSC 1113 or BAD 2533) or computer proficiency must be taken. General Education courses must be completed before or within the semester of Nursing (NUR) courses listed.

If a student withdraws from a required corequisite General Education course(s) within the semester, the student must also withdraw from the nursing course(s). LPN's currently working with a copy of current licensure and Employers Verification form (found in application packet) on file with the Nursing Admissions office will have no time restriction on course work taken.
